The Wood County Family Resource Network is a community organization charged with service coordination, needs and resource assessment, planning, community mobilization and evaluation, and has met the FRN criteria established by the WV Legislature.

The FRN does not provide direct service, but assists in improving services by reducing duplication, promoting prevention, streamlining service delivery, and serving as a clearinghouse for information.

The Wood County FRN's mission is to assist Wood County families, individuals, businesses, and community agencies to coordinate and plan the use of the community's resources in order to best meet the needs of Wood County residents.

USDA—receives their supplies from the federal government. Therefore, they are restricted to once a month access, but cannot deny anyone based on residence. Open to all WV residents.

Community--supplies are donated from the community at-large and the pantry sets their own guidelines.

*Pantries participating in the co-op share a database of families served and may have restrictions on how much one family can access their resources
